UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO

LIMITED ENGLISH PROFICIENCY PLAN

I. TITLE VI OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACT OF 1964

Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VI), 42 U.S.C. 2000d, states “No person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance.”

II. EXECUTIVE ORDER 13166

Executive Order 13166 “Improving Access to Services for Persons With Limited English Proficiency,” reprinted at 65 FR 50121 (August 16, 2000), directs each Federal agency that is subject to the requirements of Title VI to publish guidance for its respective recipients clarifying that obligation. Executive Order 13166 further directs that all such guidance documents be consistent with the compliance standards and framework detailed in the Department of Justice's (DOJ's) Policy Guidance entitled “Enforcement of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964--National Origin Discrimination Against Persons With Limited English Proficiency.” (See 65 FR 50123, August 16, 2000 DOJ's General LEP Guidance). Different treatment based upon a person’s inability to speak, read, write, or understand English may be a type of national origin discrimination. The DOJ’s Policy Guidance provided a four-factor test to be used assessing needs of an organization’s LEP persons, and in determining what should be done to best ensure access for LEP persons.

Executive Order 13166 applies to all federal agencies and all programs and operations of entities that receive funding from the federal government, including state agencies, state-controlled institutions of higher education, local agencies, governments, private and non-profit entities, and sub-recipients.

III. FEDERAL TRANSIT ADMINISTRATION (FTA) CIRCULAR 4702.1A

FTA Circular 4702.1A clarifies the responsibilities of recipients of U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) financial assistance pursuant to Title VI and provides guidance on how those recipients may fulfill their responsibilities to limited English proficient (LEP) persons.

IV. UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO LIMITED ENGLISH PROFICIENCY COMPLIANCE.

The University of Idaho seeks to fulfill its responsibility under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VI), 42 U.S.C. 2000d, to provide meaningful access to University programs and activities by persons with Limited English Proficiency (LEP) through implementation of practices and procedures described in this LEP Plan. Because the University is a complex entity, providing a range of services at locations across the state of Idaho, the practices and procedures implemented by the University, at the educational or administrative unit level, may vary based upon circumstances including, but not limited to, the location of the unit, the services provided by the unit, and resources available to the University to provide access.

The fundamental mission of the University of Idaho is the provision of postsecondary education, including undergraduate, graduate, professional, and continuing education offered through both resident instruction and extended delivery. With the exception of foreign language courses, University courses are generally taught in English. As such, students for whom English is a second language must demonstrate a level of proficiency on par with a university-level English course before enrollment.

Proficiency may be demonstrated in several ways, the most common of which is by attaining a qualifying score on the International English Language Testing System (IELTS), Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) exam, or other approved English proficiency exams. Students who do not satisfy proficiency requirements may be conditionally admitted to the University if they enroll in the University's American Language and Culture Program, with full admission granted upon successful completion of this program.

University efforts to ensure universal access by LEP persons to University services is focused primarily, but not exclusively, on the provision of postsecondary education by the University. Other, ancillary University services with which an LEP person may come into contact are transportation services.

V. FOUR-FACTOR ANALYSIS

The University will consider four factors when assessing language needs and determining what steps should be taken to ensure access for LEP persons. These four factors are:

1. The number or proportion of LEP persons in the University's service area that may be served by the University;
2. The frequency with which LEP persons come in contact with University services;
3. The nature and importance of the programs and services provided by the University to the LEP population; and
4. The resources available to the University for LEP outreach as well as the cost associated with that outreach.

1. The number or proportion of LEP persons in the University's service area that may be served by the University.

Although the University of Idaho has a state-wide educational mission and, through its extension offices, operates in 42 of the 44 counties in Idaho, the primary centers for its educational offerings and other services are at the main campus in Moscow, and its educational centers in Boise, Coeur d'Alene, and Idaho Falls. The University will use data provided by the United States Census Bureau in order to determine the level of assistance necessary and reasonable for providing LEP persons access to University services in these areas.

According to the 2018 American Community Survey,¹ t for the population 5 years old and over:

Moscow

- 8.4% of the Moscow population reported speaking a language other than English at home
 - 2.0% of the Moscow population reported speaking English “less than very well”

 - 0.4% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 1.8% of the Moscow population reported speaking “Other Indo-European languages” at home
 - 0.6% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 2.2% of the Moscow population reported speaking “Asian and Pacific Islander languages” at home
 - 0.5% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”

Coeur d’Alene

- 3.7% of the Coeur d’Alene population reported speaking a language other than English at home
 - 0.7% of the Coeur d’Alene population reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 1.5% of the Coeur d’Alene population reported speaking Spanish at home
 - 0.4% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 1.2% of the Coeur d’Alene population reported speaking “Other Indo-European languages” at home
 - 0.2% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 0.7% of the Coeur d’Alene population reported speaking “Asian and Pacific Islander languages” at home
 - 0.1% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”

Idaho Falls

- 12.3% of the Idaho Falls population reported speaking a language other than English at home
 - 4.0% of the Idaho Falls population reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 10.3% of the Idaho Falls population reported speaking Spanish at home
 - 3.3% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 1.1% of the Idaho Falls population reported speaking “Other Indo-European languages” at home
 - 0.2% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 0.7% of the Idaho Falls population reported speaking “Asian and Pacific Islander languages” at home
 - 0.5% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”

Idaho (State-Level Data)

- 10.8% of the Idaho population reported speaking a language other than English at home
 - 4.0% of the Idaho population reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 8.0% of the Idaho population reported speaking Spanish at home
 - 3.1% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”

- 1.2% of the Idaho population reported speaking “Other Indo-European languages” at home
 - 0.3% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”
- 0.9% of the Idaho population reported speaking “Asian and Pacific Islander languages” at home
 - 0.4% of these individuals reported speaking English “less than very well”

These data indicate that at the University’s main campus in in Moscow and at its educational centers in Boise, Coeur d’Alene, and Idaho Falls, Spanish speakers are the primary LEP persons likely to be served by the University, with some very limited likelihood that LEP persons encountered at the University may also include LEP persons who are speakers of “Other Indo-European languages” and “Asian and Pacific Islander languages.”

2. The frequency with which LEP individuals come in contact with a University service.

The University will assess the frequency with which staff have, or could have, contact with LEP persons by using Census data, local government agency data, telephone inquiries, and verbal or written surveys of University staff in the offices most likely to encounter LEP persons.

Based on the foregoing analysis, the University has determined that encounters with LEP persons are most likely to occur in University units including the Office of Admissions, Student Financial Aid Services, Student Accounts and Cashier’s Office, and the International Programs Office.

Two critical points of contact for LEP persons, the Office of Admissions and Student Financial Aid Services, have Spanish-speaking staff who are available to provide assistance to LEP persons who speak Spanish. Within the Office of Admissions, Spanish-speaking staff are located in both Moscow and Boise and many materials are available in Spanish (See Exhibit 1). Additionally, staff within the University’s Office of Multicultural Affairs speak Spanish and are available to provide assistance.

Because the University actively seeks to encourage enrollment of students from other countries, the University has approximately 711 international students, most of whom speak a language other than English as their native language. The International Programs Office serves as a primary point of contact and support for these students. Based upon regular review of the demographics of admitted international students (see Exhibit 1), the International Programs Office provides translated fact sheets (see Exhibit 2), which include admissions requirements for potential students, in Spanish, Chinese, Arabic, Indonesian, Portuguese, and Vietnamese. The International Programs Office has also identified a number of international students who serve as “International Ambassadors,” offering advice and assistance to potential students.² Potential students or employees may also conduct a virtual visit, which is available in Arabic, Japanese, Spanish, and Portuguese.³ The University regularly engages international students and faculty, through the International Programs Office, to provide translation services or to facilitate communication with LEP persons. Because such activities often occur informally, as students assist other students, the University does not track these instances of assistance to LEP persons.

The University, through its College Assistance Migrant Program (CAMP),⁴ also works to increase enrollment in and graduation from college by migrant/seasonal farm workers or their children. Because the population eligible for participation in CAMP most likely speak Spanish as a first or second language, University employees working in the program speak Spanish. The University also makes application materials, program brochures, and orientation materials available in Spanish (Exhibit 4).

The University, through the Office of Multicultural Affairs (OMA), coordinates the Vandal Challenge Leadership Conference, aimed to increase membership of underrepresented groups in higher education, sending acceptance letters to parents in Spanish (See Exhibit 5). OMA also presents information in both English and Spanish to potential new students at UIdaho Bound and incoming students at New Student Orientation. Staff specifically conduct outreach to students and families during the summer, and since 75% of the staff speak Spanish, they are able to converse with parents easily.

The University also provides or supports transit, services, described in more detail below, that may provide services to LEP persons.

3. The nature and importance of the program, activity, or service provided by the University to the LEP community.

As noted above, the University considers its educational services to be fundamental to its mission as an institution of public higher education. The University seeks to create a rich and diverse educational community and to expand educational opportunities in Idaho and beyond through programs such as CAMP, veterans assistance programs,⁵ and the support and inclusion promotion efforts administered by the University's Office of Equity and Diversity.⁶

The University of Idaho, through Idaho Extension,⁷ research-based advice on and non-degree educational opportunities in subject ranging from food safety to personal financial management to sustainable agriculture to members of communities throughout Idaho. As with the University courses that may be counted toward an undergraduate or graduate degree, most advice and instruction through Extension is provided in English. The College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, which oversees Idaho Extension, maintains a list of extension employees who are proficient in Spanish and relies upon these individuals to provide assistance, as needed.

The University of Idaho also provides transportation opportunities through: collaboration with Regional Public Transportation, Inc., a non-profit corporation that offers two fixed routes throughout Moscow (including the University campus) at no cost to riders; and the University-operated Vandal Access Shuttle, which provides fare-free access, primarily to University students and employees, to facilities, programs and services on campus. The RPT website offers the option of having its content translated, via Google Translate, into a variety of languages, including Spanish.⁸ As with the RPT website, the Vandal Access Shuttle site offers the translation into a number of languages.⁹

4. The resources available to the University and the overall costs.

The University will assess its available resources that can be used to provide language assistance. This includes identifying bilingual staff, determining costs associated with provision of a language line, on an as-needed basis, providing documents should be translated, and staff training.

After analyzing the four factors, the University has developed the plan outlined in the following section for assisting persons with limited English proficiency.

VI. LIMITED ENGLISH PROFICIENCY PLAN OUTLINE

1. How to Identify an LEP Person who Needs Language Assistance¹⁰

The University will use the following measures to identify individuals who may need language assistance:

- Examine requests for language assistance from past encounters (both transit and non-transit alike) to anticipate the possible need for future assistance for LEP persons;
- Have the Census Bureau’s “I Speak” cards available at identified units that are likely to encounter LEP persons. While staff may not be able to provide translation assistance at that particular encounter, the cards can be used to identify language assistance needs at future encounters; and ⁸ Regional Public Transportation Smart Transit, at <http://www.smarttransit.org/>.

¹⁰ University of Idaho International Ambassadors, at <https://www.uidaho.edu/admissions/international/international-ambassadors>.

- Survey front-line staff in units likely to encounter LEP persons regarding any direct or indirect contact with LEP individuals.

2. Language Assistance Measures

The University either already provides or is in the process of making available the following language assistance tools:

- “I Speak” cards and instructions for use;
- Reminder to University units develop and maintain list of bilingual or multilingual employees within the units and outside the unit, who can assist LEP persons;
- Language Line instructions; and
- Translation of important documents and notices into Spanish (or other languages as appropriate under the circumstances).
- Complaint procedures for LEP persons.

3. TPS Staff Training

Providing meaningful access to University services is a shared obligation of all employees. The Title VI Coordinator provides education and instruction to units on campus regarding how to assist LEP persons.

Key topics include:

- Understanding Title VI LEP responsibilities;
- Creating awareness of language assistance services the University offers;
- Specific instructions on how to assist LEP persons; and
- Other Title VI obligations and complaint procedures for LEP persons.

4. Providing Notice to LEP Persons

The University uses qualified service providers to translate official documents to ensure accuracy of translations. For less formal documents, including flyers and advertisements for entertainment events, University departments and administrative units are responsible for ensuring translation services are provided by qualified individuals.

There are several ways in which the University and its employees may provide notice to LEP persons that language assistance is available including:

- Making translated documents, including documents related to complaints procedures, easily accessible in both electronic and paper formats;
- Providing front-line employees with “I Speak” cards to facilitate quick access to an interpreter via the Language Line; and
- Where applicable, providing notice of availability of language services

5. Monitoring and Updating the LEP Plan

This plan is designed to be flexible and easily updated to accommodate changing needs. At a minimum, the University will annually review and update the Title VI Plan.

Each update should examine plan components including:

- How many LEP persons were encountered?
- Were their needs met?
- What is the current LEP population in the University's service area?
- Has there been a change in the types of languages for which translation services are needed?
- Is there still a need for continued language assistance for previously identified University programs? Are there other programs that should be included?
- Have the University's available resources, such as technology, staff, and financial assistance changed?
- Has the University fulfilled the goals of the LEP Plan?
- Were any complaints received?

VII. DISSEMINATION OF OR QUESTIONS ABOUT THE LEP PLAN

Alejandra Mojica no estaba segura si algún día iría a la universidad. Como estudiante de primera generación de Burley, ni ella ni su familia tenían la experiencia para navegar con todo lo que tiene que ver con la educación universitaria.

Pero con disciplina y el apoyo de su familia, Alejandra recibió becas para permitirle recibir una educación en la Universidad de Idaho. Como Vandal, confió en su disciplina para salir aún más de su zona de confort con pasantías de alto perfil, lo que la llevó a recibir una oferta de trabajo de J.P.Morgan en la ciudad de Nueva York.

En Universidad de Idaho, Alejandra se apasionó por las finanzas y la contabilidad y ahora está avanzando hacia la carrera de sus sueños.

Dear Parents and/or Guardians:

The Office of Multicultural Affairs (OMA) and the student group Organización de Estudiantes Latino Americanos (OELA) are pleased to announce the acceptance of your student to Vandal Challenge Leadership Conference! This event will take place at the University of Idaho campus in Moscow, Idaho, October 24-26, 2019. Transportation, meals, and housing will be covered.

Since 1997, OELA has hosted the Vandal Challenge tradition on campus at the University of Idaho. OELA's mission is to "increase the membership of underrepresented groups in higher education by promoting the advantages of a degree". This leadership conference will educate your child about the transition from high school to college, and identifying paths to get the resources (academic, cultural and financial) needed to attend college. Your student will also experience life as a college student for a day, have an opportunity to meet other high school students from across the state of Idaho, as well as an opportunity to interact with current University of Idaho students. Some of the topics and activities they will participate in are:

- Financing Your Education
- UT Admission Application
- Professor Access Forum
- Attend a college class
- Residence Hall Life
- Campus Tours
- Multicultural Student Organization Presentations
- Creating a Resume
- CAMP Presentation
- OMA Presentation
- And MUCH MORE

Your student will be supervised at all times. Students will be organized in groups of 10 with a staff chaperone and student leaders chaperones. Also, students will be grouped according to their intended academic majors. For example, those students interested in Education will be grouped together. A staff chaperone will also be with students while they travel to and from your home to the University of Idaho, as well as in the rooms where they will stay during the leadership conference.

Please read all the materials included in the packet. These letters contain important information that include the: 1) Acceptance Letter addressed to your student, 2) Rules and Regulations, 3) University of Idaho Vandal Challenge liability waiver, and 4) a bus schedule.

The Liability Waiver and Student Code of Conduct must be completed and signed by both you and your student for them to be able to get on the bus. Make sure to bring the completed forms to the bus pick up.

Please remind your student to eat breakfast or lunch before boarding the bus as they will be on the road for 5-10 hours, snacks will be provided but very little stops will be made. Lunch will be provided once we reach Caldwell and dinner in Moscow.

We look forward to having your student participate in this great conference! Please don't hesitate to contact me at the Office of Multicultural Affairs 8am-5pm (pst.) at (208) 885-7716 or my cell after hours at (208) 310-6873.

Sincerely,

Desde 1997, OELA ha establecido la conferencia de "Vandal Challenge" en la Universidad de Idaho. La misión de OELA es motivar a estudiantes Latinos para que continúen con su educación y promoviendo las ventajas de obtener un título universitario. Esta conferencia de liderazgo ayudara a educar a su estudiante la transición de la preparatoria a la Universidad, y le ayudara identificar los recursos necesarios para asistir a la Universidad. Su estudiante aprenderá lo que es ser un estudiante universitario por un día. Así mismo, convivirá con estudiantes que actualmente asisten a la Universidad de Idaho. Algunos de los temas y actividades en los que participaran serán:
