

The Women's Leadership Conference (WLC) organizing committee is excited to announce this year's conference will be held on March 25, 2025 at the Lewis Alumni Center in Pullman, WA and we are currently seeking dynamic and inspiring speakers to contribute to this empowering experience.

If you are passionate about women's leadership, and have a compelling story or expertise to share, we invite you to submit your proposal to be a speaker at WLC 2025.

Proposals can be submitted here by Friday, February 7th. Please include a topic proposal and speaker bio.

Why Speak at WLC 2025?

The Women's Leadership Conference is a collaboration between the University of Idaho and Washington State University open to individuals of all gender identities.

By joining us as a speaker, you become part of the largest event on the Palouse empowering women in leadership, celebrating and building a strong community of professionals. Your insights and experiences contribute significantly to the growth and development of our attendees.

Paving Your Path and Reaching New Heights

This year's conference theme, "Paving Your Path and Reaching New Heights," will delve into many topics. We are dedicated to creating a space where participants can:

- Understand continued barriers to collaboration, women's leadership, and professional opportunities.
- Make connections to other colleagues and develop networking structures to support personal and professional growth.
- Enhance skills and tools for continuing personal and professional growth.
- Learn ways to empower and uplift the voices of all in the workplace.

We look forward to receiving your proposals and appreciate your commitment to advancing women in leadership. Together, let's build a community that celebrates and empowers women to achieve their full potential.
